

Redefining Resource

Using the nouns below or nouns of your own, write down the 5 nouns that best define who you are in the first column. Be truthful in your noun choices and do not choose nouns like child or parent because these are the roles you play for others. Who are you for you?

After you write down each of the 5 nouns, in the second column write down the names of the 5 people in your life who you would consider most important. If you are a parent don't write your children.

Draw arrows between the noun and the person who knows you as that noun.
